MOOSE PICKING WORKING MEN

Progressives' Recognition Of Common People.

Nominees in Sympathy With Classes Not Under Boss Rule.

Washington, Sept. 25.—The American Federation of Labor is highly pleased with the recognition that is being shown the labor movement by the new Progressive party.

The nomination of laboring men by the Progressives in various parts of the country, for responsible offices, especially for Congress and for the State Legislature, convinces the officials of the American Federation of Labor that the new party is sincerely desirous of staying close to the people and of securing the enactment of legislation that will ameliorate the condition of the workers.

This tendency is regarded as convincing evidence that the new party is going to be a party of the common people, its aims and purposes sharply differentiated from the boss-controlled Republican party, which is a party of special privileges.

Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, said today that he has received word that the Progressives have nominated a number of laboring men for Congress, in some districts, with a fair prospect of election. Timothy F. Hendry, president of the International Brotherhood of Stationary Firemen has been nominated for Congress in the Sixteenth New York District by the Progressive party.

Progressives in Kansas City, where the new party is strong, have nominated Charles A. Sumner, a union stereotypographer for Congress. Mr. Morrison expressed his own pleasure and the satisfaction of the other federation officials over the nomination by Progressives of men for Congress and other offices who can be trusted to faithfully represent the toiling masses no longer exploited by the politicians and reactionaries in the true sense of the word.

The information which comes to the federation headquarters is that the Progressives are generally nominating for Congress and the State Legislature a class of men who are in sympathy with the common people and who can not be controlled by the bosses.

"There is every reason to hope," said Mr. Morrison, "that the Congress to be elected this year will be more truly representative than any that has preceded it, at least for a generation or more. The indications are that the number of Representatives who are friendly to the cause of labor will be largely increased by the fall election. The same sort of favoring process is going on in the selection of members of the State Legislatures."

The information which comes to federation headquarters is that the Republicans are not improving the character of their nominations any, the candidates generally being the same old "hand-picked" sort that the politicians usually put up to do their bidding.

The Democrats, who are trying to make a play to the labor vote are nominating a somewhat better class than the Republicans, but those observers are shrewd enough to see the spring attached to a good many of the Democratic nominees which will pull them the wrong way after the election.

As far as President Taft's candidacy is concerned it is not overhauling the situation a particle to say that it has become an absolute joke. "The reports put out by the Taft press agents about 'the President's chances improving' only excite mirth at the capital where everybody who has his finger on the political pulse knows better.

One of the best indexes of the real feeling is that all of the men, almost all of them, who held that job under the Administration are making private business connections to become effective early next March. They feel absolutely certain that they will be separated from the public service about that time.

In private conversation they are saying that Mr. Taft is doomed, that no power on earth can put any life into his candidacy, etc. They feel certain that if Col. Roosevelt is elected he will use a clean broom in sweeping out the officeholders who are not under civil service and consequently they regard their own days in office as numbered, whether the Progressives or the Democrats win.

The collapse of President Taft's candidacy is general throughout the country. There is not one ray of hope or one redeeming prospect from the Taft standpoint. The situation in a nutshell is that hardly anybody, aside from a few professional politicians, is presenting to give any reason why he should be elected.

Even the professional politicians are not at heart for the President. They care nothing for him, but are using his name to hold possession of the Republican party organization.

The managers of Woodrow Wilson's candidacy now report that President Taft is so far out of the running that he is not a factor to be considered. When Representative A. S. Burdison, of Texas, who is one of the leading directors of the Wilson campaign, was here recently he told friends that Roosevelt has out-distanced Taft everywhere, as shown by reports coming in at Democratic national headquarters.

The Democratic National Committee is not paying any attention to Taft, on the theory that it does not pay to waste ammunition on dead ducks. The entire Democratic campaign is now being shaped on the theory that Roosevelt is Wilson's only real antagonist.

NICHOLAS MOOSE ARE WARMING UP

Col. James A. Fisher Says Strenuous Campaign Will be Waged.

Carlisle, Ky., Sept. 24.—Preparations are being made by Col. James A. Fisher chairman, and the campaign committee of the Progressive party in Nicholas County, for the opening of the campaign for the Roosevelt and Johnson ticket, which will probably take place here next week.

Mr. Fisher states a strenuous campaign will be waged by the Progressives in this county. Speakers will be heard in every precinct of the county, and a big rally will be held in Carlisle.

Democrats and Republicans will be challenged for joint discussions, and the contest will probably close with a widespread campaign of the county.

Among the local speakers for the Roosevelt ticket are: L. E. Peabody, of this city, and John G. Blair, of Miranda. The Progressives are afraid over their chances in Nicholas County, and claim that President Taft will run third here.

NO CREEK

Sept. 25.—Rev. Eli Wesley and family will remain home this week from Liberty where they have been visiting since Conference. They have made many friends here the past year and have a welcome return to the community as well as pastor of Wesley Chapel.

Mr. and Mrs. John Sanderson visited relatives at Owensboro last week.

Master Noble Pittsley has typhoid fever.

Mr. Homer Lindley who has been sick for some time is slowly improving.

Prof. W. R. Carson has been teaching at East NoCreek the past week. Prof. C. B. Shown having been absent on account of sickness.

Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Punsall, Union, visited the latter's brother Mr. E. K. Henry and family Sunday.

Mrs. Eva Ragland spent the week end with her parents near Hargan.

Mr. Eugene Bennett left Saturday for Illinois.

Word has recently been received from Mrs. Lillie Nelson, of Spokane, Wash., of the death of her father, Mr. Leas Sanderson, which occurred at his home at Alva, Okla., Aug. 5. Mr. Sanderson lived here in his younger days and was a brother of the late Jasper N. Sanderson of this place, also, Mrs. Delilah Stewart of East Hartford and Mr. Marion Sanderson of Hargan.

ENJOYABLE DAY WITH HEFLIN LOCAL

Members of A. S. of E. Spent Pleasant and Profitable Day.

Hartford, Ky., Sept. 23, 1912.
Editors Republican.—We wish to beg space in which to give an account of the Hartford Magisterial District meeting of the A. S. of E. which met with Heflin Local Union at Chapman schoolhouse on Saturday last.

Though the morning was cloudy and it looked very much as though we would have a rainy day, about 9:30 o'clock the people began to gather in and by 10 o'clock the schoolhouse was comfortably filled. At this time the meeting was called to order by the chairman, Mr. G. P. Jones, with Mr. Byron Bean at his place as secretary.

After a song, prayer was offered by Rev. T. H. Balmann. This was followed by a welcome address to the delegates and visitors present delivered by T. E. Tanner. The response was made by Bro. Balmann and was highly enjoyed by all present.

After the appointment of a committee on resolutions, program and auditing by the chair, the time up until noon was taken up in hearing reports from the various points in the district.

At noon we adjourned to the shade of a spreading oak, where the ladies spread a bountiful feast and the next hour was spent in doing justice to the boiled ham, baked mutton, fried chicken and other good things too numerous to mention not least of which was a lot of fresh cider furnished by Mr. A. L. Baird.

At 1:30 o'clock we were called to order and after hearing the reports of the various committees, the afternoon was spent in a general discussion of reports of committees and other things of interest to organized farmers. At about 5 o'clock we adjourned to meet with Heflin local the 2nd Sunday in December.

Taking it all in all, it was the verdict of all present that it was a day well spent. The only regret we heard expressed was that more people were not present to enjoy it with us. Now just a word to the Equity people of this county. If you are not keeping up these district meetings, you are making a sad mistake and are not living up to your privilege, for a day spent thus occasionally is not only very pleasant and adds greatly to the social good fellowship of the community, but is a good investment financially. Hoping we may have more such meetings and that you may all enjoy them, is the wish of
ONE PRESENT.

Miss Lydia Young Victim of Typhoid.

Miss Lydia Young fell asleep at the home of Mrs. June Payton, at Olaton, Ky., about 8:00 o'clock on the evening of Friday, September 20th, after a 9 weeks' illness of Typhoid. Miss Young was 41 years and 6 months old.

Rev. Marion Farris gave a beautiful talk at the Payton home after which the remains were conveyed to the Green burial grounds where interment occurred at 3:30 o'clock on the evening of the 21st. Four brothers, Ernest and Norman, of Olaton, Austin, of Fordville, and Sam, of Pine Knob, remain to mourn her demise.

Prominent Ohio County Man Dead

Mr. Moses S. Ragland died at his home at Elder's View, Hardin county, Kentucky, Sunday after a long illness of cancer.

The remains were taken to Hargan Monday for burial and funeral services were conducted at that place at 2 o'clock that afternoon by Elder W. B. Wright, pastor of the Christian Church of this city.

Mr. Ragland was for years prominent in Republican politics in Ohio county. He resided at Rosine for years and was there engaged in the mercantile business. In 1890 he was defeated for county clerk by Mr. Bowman Holbrook, but ran again for that office and was elected in 1897 and was re-elected to the same office in 1901. He was a veteran of the Civil War, having joined the Union Army in 1861.

The deceased was a member of the Christian Church, having recently joined. He was 67 years old and leaves a wife, four sons, three daughters and scores of friends and relatives to mourn his departure.

COULD PUT BECKER IN ELECTRIC CHAIR

This Was Boast of Schepps at Hot Springs, Declares Witness.

Hot Springs, Ark., Sept. 24.—"My evidence will send Becker to the chair; don't I know it?"
This, in effect, was one of the declarations of Sam Schepps, Rosenthal murder case witness, to Postmaster F. E. Johnson, of Hot Springs, according to the testimony of Mr. Johnson before Special Commissioner Huff.

Another declaration of Schepps' reported to the postmaster, was in substance:

"If Rosenthal had not been such a 'poacher' he would not have got himself in so bad. I don't want you fellows to think we killed a man of some account. Rosenthal deserved to be killed."

Johnson, who arrested Schepps here, said he talked to him almost five hours on August 10, mostly about the Rosenthal murder, and Schepps' connection with it. Schepps, he said, first begged not to be delivered to the New York police; then, disavowed graft, public officials, the causes leading up to the killing of Rosenthal and declared, "I am the keynote of the whole situation."

Becker, Johnson testified, was described by Schepps as a "graffer," one never satisfied and always using an increased donation if a gambler showed prosperity.

C. H. Mosher, another witness, last night corroborated the testimony of previous witnesses as to Schepps' alleged assertion crediting to Becker a threat to kill Rosenthal if "the gang" did not, and Rosenthal's connection with women and girls. Schepps, the witness said, detailed his movements after the killing, and one night remarked:

"By G—, I shook hands with one of the best detectives Burns has got, got away and then came down here and got pinched by an Arkansas policeman."

OLATON.

Sept. 25.—Mr. D. B. Payton was here from Crofton, Ky., several days as the guest of his mother, Mrs. Jane Payton.

Miss Georgia B. Dowell arrived Sunday night from Crofton, Ky., to visit her sister, Mrs. Wesley D. Duke.

Mrs. Frances Ellen Allen and Eugene Randall Allen, of Rosine, were guests of Mrs. Allen's sister, Mrs. Melvina Hall Wednesday and Thursday.

Estill Moxley, clerk in the Moxley store here visited his father, C. S. Moxley, Fordville, R. F. D. No. 2, Saturday and Sunday.

Dunk Hall, of Hartford, is ill at the home of his grandmother Mrs. Melvina Hall.

Bro. Birch Shields, of Rockport, filled his regular appointment at the Baptist church Saturday and Sunday.

Wilbert E. Hall was in Fordville Thursday on business.

Mr. John F. Allen has sold his beautiful residence and general store on Church street to Mr. C. S. Moxley of R. F. D. No. 2, Fordville. Consideration not known. Mr. Moxley took charge of the store last week.

Master Dee May is able to be out again after his recent illness.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Allen were guests of Wesley D. Duke and family in the country near Hargan Sunday afternoon.

Misses Bessie Smith and Garnett Evelyn Moxley were guests of friends at Barren's Ferry Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Arthur L. Mitchell has been ill several days at her home on Wing Avenue.

Ohio County Man Bankrupt.

The Owensboro Inquirer says: Starting in his voluntary petition in bankruptcy that he has filed in the office of the federal court clerk in this city, that he is a debt to the extent of $35,76, and that he is unable to liquidate his indebtedness, Chas. F. Frayser, who states that he is a laborer engaged at the Taylor mines in Ohio county, prays the court that he be adjudged a bankrupt.

The petitioner states that the Belfonte Trust company of Tyrone, Pa. holds his note for $17,500, while the remainder of his indebtedness is due banks and mercantile houses in Altoona, Pa. The petitioner does not list any assets, although from the petition it seems that at one time he owned stock in the Walnut Coal Company at Altoona.

BALD KNOB.

Sept. 23.—Health in this neighborhood is not very good at this writing. Miss Della Smith, who has been visiting relatives in Evansville, Ind., and Henderson, Ky., returned home Wednesday.

Mr. J. H. Howard and family visited Mr. S. Taylor and family of Mt. Zion, Sunday.

Born to the wife of Mr. L. L. Leach on the 21 a fine 10 pound boy, Magher and babe doing well.

Uncle Riley Hues, has begun digging coal on Uncle Elsie Payton's farm.

Mr. F. L. Taylor and wife, Miss Emily, and Miss Della Smith, went to the Morgantown fair Saturday.

Mr. Chester Leach, and family visited relatives and friends Sunday.

Presidential Candidate Authors.

It is not only an interesting but unique fact that the three presidential candidates, Col. Roosevelt, Governor Wilson and President Taft, are all notable authors as well as politicians. (Colonel Roosevelt leads the list with a wide margin having more than forty volumes, aside from scores of magazine articles to his credit. Governor Wilson comes next with a number of text books, books on politics and law; a five volume history of the American people and several volumes of essays on general literary topics. President Taft also has several volumes to his credit.)

INTEREST GROWS IN WHISKY VOTE

Warm Fight Being Waged In Montgomery County On Local Option.

Mt. Sterling, Ky., Sept. 23.—The local option election in this county has begun to wax warm and the interest is increasing. The vote is for the entire county and will be taken on Monday September 30. The drys began their campaign in the city tonight with singing addresses and will hold meetings each night in various sections. They claim sure victory.

The sajoon and business men opposing the movement are making a quiet educational fight, and believe they have a chance to win, although they are making their plans to appeal the result of the election if they are defeated. This claim that the call for the election is illegal and that the higher courts will so decide.

The claim of illegality is based on the fact that County Judge McCormick allowed the petitions to be amended and enough names added after the withdrawal to make the petitions comply with the law, which says that 25 per cent of the voters of each precinct must be obtained to the petitions before the election should be called, the petitions to lie over thirty days from time of filing.

When the withdrawals were made, the required number of voters had not been secured, and Judge McCormick allowed the petitions to be amended by new names added. The withdrawals are allowed by law, but no law has been laid down regarding the amendment of the petitions, and Judge McCormick decided the question, thus establishing a precedent.

The "wet" claim his action was clearly illegal, and for that reason are not making the fight that they would otherwise. Should the matter be taken through the courts and the drys win, elections will be called in Paducah, Winchester and Lexington as soon as they can possibly be held. On the final results of the election here rests the question as to whether all Central Kentucky will be dry by next fall.

Lives Querly Tangled.

Duluth, Minn., Sept. 23.—Meeting today for the first time in fifteen years and learning that they are engaged to two sisters, is the experience of J. Mayer, of New York, and W. B. Smith of Chicago, traveling salesmen.

The men met in a hotel by chance and began to talk over old times in England, Ind., where they separated after leaving school.

Mr. Smith volunteered the information that he was betrothed and Mr. Mayer said he was too. It soon developed that they were to marry sisters at Elkhart.

"Let's make a double wedding," suggested Mayer.

"All right," said Smith.

POLITICAL PLUMS MADE TOOTHsome

Fouth Class Postmasters Under Civil Service.

Only First Step of Plan To Place All On List of Classified Work.

Washington, Sept. 23.—It was practically decided today that President Taft, in the near future, will issue an executive order, placing all fourth-class postmasters in the classified service.

This order, relieving 36,038 postmasters from the uncertainty of political appointment, will be one of the most comprehensive and far-reaching, as affecting the civil service, ever issued by a President of the United States.

That the President would take this step, his first act toward putting into practice his often expressed belief that all Government officers below the grade of cabinet members should be removed from the influence of politics and placed under the civil service, became practically certain late today, after a delegation of postmasters, returning from the annual convention of the association in Richmond, Va., had been received at the White House, and by Postmaster General Hitchcock. The visitors submitted a monster petition, signed by about 20,000 postmasters, asking that they be placed in the classified service.

After discussing the matter briefly with the delegation, President Taft referred the executive committee to Mr. Hitchcock for further consideration of the matter. Later the committee called on the Postmaster General to discuss the subject with him.

In a few days Mr. Hitchcock will submit to President Taft a formal recommendation that the petition be granted, and the President is expected to act promptly, and favorably on the recommendation.

In the entire country there were 49,672 fourth-class postmasters at the end of the last fiscal year. By executive order issued in July, 1908, President Roosevelt placed the fourth-class postmasters of all the New England States and of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, and Wisconsin in the civil service, a total of 15,631. Those still without the service number 34,041.

While the details of the proposition have not been worked out, it is expected that the converting into the classified service of this great number of officials will be accomplished by the designation of the postmasters of groups of States successively.

It will require an immense amount of labor on the part of the Civil Service Commission, particularly, as well as on the part of the Postoffice Department.

Both the President and Postmaster General Hitchcock have recommended to Congress that all postmasters be converted into the classified service; and that, so far as possible, the entire personnel of the postal service be removed from political influence.

As to the first, second, and third classes of postmasters, legislation by the Congress would be required to place them under civil service regulations; but the President now has authority, under certain defined limitations of competency and efficiency, to put postmasters of the fourth class under regulation the civil service rules.

Surprise Supper at Trisler.

Miss Victoria Moxley was given a surprise pound supper at her home near Trisler, Ky., Saturday night September 21st, in honor of her 21st birthday anniversary. Many of her friends and relatives were present and the supper was delightfully enjoyed by all present. Among those to attend were:

Messrs. Louie Vandiver, Helen Keene Jesse Vandiver, Ollie Petty, Vernon Sapp, Alvan Moxley, Ray Moxley, Dave Whitnashill, Eddie Salmon, Benjamin Whitnashill, Tommie Johnson, Frank Robarber, Jr., Arable Burch, Claude Fonda, Robert Swihart, Fon Johnson, Wilbur Burch, Harve Blair, and Betty Moxley. Misses Mayme Blair, Katie Swihart, Adeline Matherson, Leola Swihart, Anna Petty, Nannie Sapp, Rhoda Burch, Ida May Moxley, Mrs. Sally Blair.

Not 25 per cent of the teachers of the state are taking advantage of these opportunities, and many of them will be left out when the change comes. I am hoping to see the day when our teachers will be better paid, but when that day dawns it will bring with it also an undeniable demand for better prepared teachers.

The kaiser is credited with being a far-sighted politician as well as an able upholder of his prerogative as a sovereign. He sees the drift of the times as other crowned heads see it.

Running up and down stairs, swamping and bawling over making beds will not make a woman healthy or beautiful. She must get out of doors, walk a mile or two every day and take Chamberlain's Tablets to improve her digestion and regulate her bowels. For sale by all druggists.

A new electric fan seems to combine all the well known types by having two sets of blades which rotate round the standard and tilt up and down as they revolve.

A machine which thoroughly cleanses 300 barrels an hour by washing them inside and out and rinsing them several times has been invented.

LOVE'S FURLOUGH PROVES A WINNER

Proof That Dreams Sometimes Reach to the Reality.

By IZOLA FORRESTER.

"It's only to be absolutely sure." Suzanne did not look at him as she spoke. It was far too hazardous. But Don was taking it very calmly. He regarded her with unblinking eyes from his perch on the veranda rail.

"But we stay engaged?" "Oh, yes," Suzanne assented, cheerfully. "I don't mind, do you? It's only to test our feelings, Don. Don't you understand? I'm going with the Janeways for a week, and you may stay here and fish or sail; do just what you like."

"So generous of you," murmured Don.

"Why not? I want you to be happy."

"Yes, you do? You know I can't be happy without you."

"We don't know for sure, yet," Suzanne was very firm, but gentle. She felt sorry for Don, but when it came to a serious question like this, she felt it far better to put it to the test. "It isn't as if we were breaking the engagement, Don, dear. It's just a sort of furlough, don't you see? We'll keep it a secret and both be free to do as we please."

"Which means you'll trot all over Tressac Island with Carl Janeway?"

"You are at perfect liberty to do the same with any girl here."

"But that's the rub, Sue. You know I don't give a rap about any other girl here, and you want a chance to try out Janeway."

Suzanne pursed her pretty lips reprovingly.

"Sometimes you seem like a big, overgrown cub, Don; you do, really. Mr. Janeway is a perfect stranger to me."

"Blanche has been writing to you for a month to come and meet her brother. Don't I know?"

"Well—I'm going," smiled Suzanne.

"And you may do just what you please about it."

"May I?" Don asked grimly, with a swift safe glance at her. "I'll remind you of that when you come back."

"Well—I'm Going."

"Don't be too rash, or maybe I won't come back."

"Ah, Sue, don't say that!"

But Suzanne merely laughed, and rose from the deep arm chair. She knew perfectly well how charming she was, and how she held Don Hamilton's heart on her own pink palm. And the very surely had begun to bore her. It had been unfortunate, their falling in love so soon, at the beginning of the summer season, and now at early fall, it seemed an old story.

Blanche had succeeded in arousing her curiosity over her wonderful explorer brother. Don had never explored any unknown territory except her own heart. She would go down to Tressac Island and see this celebrity, and without Don. And she went.

The whole island was owned by the Janeways. It lay like a beautiful green emerald far out in the lake. After the excitement and restless life at the seashore resort Suzanne found it folding a spell of enchantment about her, the peace and dreamy languor that hung over the entire place.

It was the fifth day. She had written one letter to Don—one only. Was not love on a furlough? And not a word had she heard in reply. It was queer of Don to act that way. He had no perspective on life, she told herself. Carl Janeway was keen on perspectives.

"We can never hold the reality in our grasp, try as we will," he told her. "Do we not ever reach for the dream?"

"I suppose we do," Suzanne assented, faintly, but she remembered unpleasantly how tangible had been the realization of Don's dream. She did not meet Janeway's glance. They were just landing after the daily sunset canoe trip. She watched him now, as he lifted the canoe as easily as an Indian guide. He was like an Indian, too, in his tall, lithe build, black hair, and odd, dark eyes that never seemed to close. Blanche had said he was interesting. Suzanne found him more than that. Vaguely, he fascinated her. She loved to sit in the canoe, gathering water lilies on a lake that had turned to gold and amethyst and ruby red under the sunset splendor, listening to his tales of a world-wide quest. That was what he called it, a quest after fortune. Blanche had taken pains to tell her he had found it.

"When are you leaving Tressac, Gray Eyes," he asked suddenly.

"Saturday."

She waited while he hid the canoe under the trees. It was twilight now. A faint breeze stole over the lake, perfume laden. Up at the lodge they were lighting the long Chinese lanterns around the porch. And suddenly, without warning, Janeway's arms closed about her.

"But you will not go—not now. You know the same as I do that this is the end of the quest."

Swiftly, recklessly, Suzanne's palm struck out and cuffed the famous explorer's nearest ear even while she evaded his lips. And then, picking up her skirt, she ran straight for the shelter of the lantern's glow.

"I'm going tomorrow, Blanche," she exclaimed, finding her hostess alone there.

"Oh, so soon, dear? why? Here's a letter for you, anyway. From the shore, too!"

Suzanne read it through once, twice. Every word sank deep into her conscience. It was from Don.

"I think you had better stay longer. I am going up to Canada with the Wheatons in their car. The day you left I took a wrong header in diving and struck my shoulder. Lucky it wasn't the neck, eh? Have been laid up ever since. Head grazed a rock, too."

"Blanche, I am going now, tonight. Don's badly hurt. I'm sorry, but I must go."

"Don?"

Then Suzanne raised her head and for the first time publicly announced her engagement. Back there under the pines, when another man's arms had closed about her, she had found out what Don Hamilton's love meant to her.

"So you see I must go," she added, hurriedly. "Aunt Isabel is there at the hotel, but he will want me. And—and—I don't want him to try to go on this motor trip."

"But I thought you liked Carl, dear?"

"Did you?" Suzanne laid her arms around the other girl's shoulders.

"Blanche, you know what funny people we women are, don't you? I didn't know until tonight which one I cared for, but now I do, and I want to get back to Don just as soon as the boat will take me."

"There's a train at 8:18 and you can catch the ferry over in 15 minutes. Don't talk, Sue, just rush. I know how you feel."

Don Hamilton opened his eyes widely at the vision that stood by his hammock beside Aunt Isabel's portly one. It was Suzanne, a long motoring cloak thrown back, showing her still in her brown khaki suit.

"Don't hug him too hard, child. He's all bandaged," protested Aunt Isabel, but Don did not mind the pain. He only heard her voice in his ear.

SOURCE OF HIS INSPIRATION

Not From Great Singer In Naples, but From Phonograph Came the Famous Tune.

Once there was to be a Salamis that should make it doubtful, when the name was heard, whether it was the mother city that was meant or its daughter in another land. So today when an Italian boy or girl appears in Boston schools, it is uncertain whether the child hails from the Italy of the Caesars or from "Little Italy" down round North Square. The author of "Panama," a recent book relating to the isthmus, found the same question arising in the Canal Zone.

While we were stuck on a mud bank, fighting mosquitoes, an incident occurred that illustrates how pervasive is progress. One of the deckhands who looked like an Italian was enlivening his job by stitching a patch on a pair of overalls by singing the duke's song from "Rigoletto." And he sang it well. He had a rich barytone. His voice evidently had not been trained, but he sang true. Sitting there on a dry-goods case, beating time against it with his bare heels, he threw into his singing a large measure of the airy nonchalance, the very spirit of the song, that is so often lacking in the performance of professionals.

"Now listen to that," the captain said. "That's the real Latin for you. Music born in him. I don't suppose he can read or write. But once, when he was a little shaver, back in Italy, his father took him to the opera in Naples, and he heard some great artist sing that. And he remembers it still; sings it down here in the jungle, without any accompaniment but his heels, a lot better than an English or an American university man could sing it with an orchestra."

"Let's get him to tell us about it," I suggested.

The captain called him up, and asked him where he was born.

"New York," he said.

"Mulberry street?" I asked.

"Sure."

"Where did you learn that song?"

"Oh, that? That's a Caruso song. I learned it out of a phonograph."

FATHER'S SCALES AN AID TO LITTLE CUPID

How the Housekeeper Successfully Engineered Love Affair.

By J. T. GREENLEAF.

"Did you get any satisfaction about our marriage out of father this morning, Paul?" Brownie Weston asked her lover as they were pacing the broad piazza of the Weston home in the April dusk.

"Yes and no," answered the young man. "He said: 'When I'm in danger of going to jail on account of my sharp practices or some woman ropes me into marrying her, you may have Brownie.'"

"That's father all over," she laughed. "How he does enjoy a war of wits, especially with you! Let's think about it, for I don't believe it's a wholly idle speech. Tell me something else that has happened today with you."

"Absolutely a gray blank in every respect. We've been hauling potatoes to the car for him to ship—but yes, there was one little thing that was interesting. Widow Alkins brought two bushels of the tubers, and when I weighed the outfit again it fell short 60 pounds, showing one bushel only."

"That's queer," the girl flashed.

"What did you do?"

"Registered it for two bushels and gave her a credit slip accordingly."

"Then his scales are wrong," Brownie cried.

"If they are, he doesn't know it. He's the most obstinate, cantankerous, old—"

"Sh—sh—," the girl ordered, laying a slim, brown hand over the farmer's mouth, "you mustn't speak in that derogatory way of your future father-in-law!"

"A—mighty long way in the future," sputtered Paul, getting the obstruction to free speech in his hand as he went on; "but even then he's honest and square."

"I'm glad you think so, but I know him better than you do, and there's more in it than shows," she pursued.

"Tomorrow, every load you bring to him, you weigh at home and then weigh back the crates on your own scales and tell me about it when you come over in the evening."

"That's silly, darling," Paul declared. "If there's an inaccuracy he doesn't know it, and if it should turn out that he does, you and I couldn't catch him. I know there isn't. He's honest."

"You mind me, Paulie," the daughter of Hiram Weston ordered, "for there's something doing, I know."

This reminder of Weston's own spirit was enforced by something that topped the young man's mouth.

The following morning a solid bit of humanity, Hannah Arbuthnot, queenly, even in her dark blue calico dress said to Brownie:

"What's the matter with my baby?"

"Nothing new, dearie," replied the girl. "Just the old story—father won't let me marry Paul. He keeps jollying us along. You know what a dear, trying mischievous old angel he is!"

"What's he done now?" asked the housekeeper, hitching her portly self up on the broad kitchen table and gathering Brownie in her strong arms.

A few words told the latest developments and then Hannah soliloquized:

"He said that, did he? You leave him to me. We'll see what your old-maid foster-mother can do for her baby. He wanted to marry me once, you know."

"When Weston drove in, tired, wet and muddy, that evening, Hannah caught a lantern and slipped out to the barn, saying as she closed the door:

"You give him his supper, little girl."

Toward the end of the satisfying meal, Weston remarked with his eyes taking in the beauty of the girl:

"You remind me so much of your mother, Brownie!"

"That's a great compliment, father, for they say she was a handsome woman."

"She certainly was," he agreed; "but what's Hannah up to, taking care of old Kitty for me and all? She hasn't heard of my proposition to that slow, good boy lover of yours, has she?"

"What would she try to do if she had?"

"She might think I'd ask her to marry me, especially if you two got your heads together to beat an old man," he chuckled.

"But I'll never do that twice to the same woman!"

A light step on the porch took the girl to the door, and Paul was ushered into the parlor.

"Well, what about the weights?" asked the little lady at once.

"Each load was about 60 pounds short; but he don't know it, I'm sure," was the report.

"All right," she responded, with her eyes dancing with mischief. "I'll call him in and you tell him."

"If I? Tell your father! I'd rather face a locomotive!" he exclaimed.

"But don't you think he ought to know it?"

"Why—yes. He certainly—," he stammered, as she called out through the open door into the dining room:

"Father, Paul and I don't agree about a matter and we want your advice. Hannah, you better come, too!"

"What is it all about?" Weston asked, going directly to Paul, who was as white as marble, lips and hands in a tremor. As the reply was slow in coming, there was a second demand: "Out with it!"

"Your—your—scales, Mr. Weston, are wrong, but I don't—"

"My scales wrong?" the older man burst out. "Why you young—you young—and right in my own house—"

"I—I thought you ought to know it, sir," Paul babbled. Then he told his story.

"But I'm sure you didn't know it," he added.

"And you and Brownie aren't intending to use it in response to my proposition of yesterday?"

"Oh, no, sir. That wouldn't be fair unless you knew it. You're honest, sir."

"Well, sir, I did know it," said Weston, handing Brownie the round, iron disk that represents 300 pounds as a weight. "Turn it over, Kitten. See that little wad of lead. That made the overweight that Paul found. I used it on his own outfit and the widow's, to see how far he was watching his own interest."

"Then may I have Brownie?" gasped Paul.

"Not much," cried Weston, "I'm in no danger of going to jail for sharp practices, am I?"

"May I say a word or two?" demurely asked Hannah.

"Sure," assented Weston, "I'm in the hands of the Philistines, but I'm too much for the whole of you."

"Please read that," said Hannah passing an old letter to Brownie.

After a minute of scanning the missive the girl said: "This is a proposal of marriage from Hiram Weston to Hannah Arbuthnot, dated six years ago. Its concluding sentence provides that the offer holds good for ten years, as an evidence of good faith."

Looking Weston squarely in his eyes, Hannah declared: "And now I accept!"

Gathering the regal figure in his arms and looking at Paul and Brownie over the shapely shoulder, Weston cried:

"Roped! By thunder!"

NOT HIS TIME FOR REVENGE

Circumstances Seemed Favorable for the Moment, but the Luck Would Not Hold.

Aboard the great ship the silence of despair reigned. She had struck on an uncharted reef, and, owing to the heavy sea, the boats had either been stove in against the ship's side or swamped in the attempt to lower. A stalwart passenger stole up to the captain's side.

"Do you think, sir," he asked, "that there is the slightest chance of our being saved?"

"Look here," said the skipper, in tones of disgust, "that's the sixth time you've asked me that question. Why, you great lubberly brute, I believe you're the biggest coward aboard!"

"S—sh! No, I'm not," protested the burly one. "But, look here. You see that old duffer standing by the rail? Well, he's my rich uncle, and all my life I've had to put up with his cursed cantankerousness. But if the ship's going down, and there's no hope, I'd like time to give him one good, sound kick to square the little account I owe him!"

Just then a rescue ship appeared off the scene and above the joyful shout the raucous voice of the old man by the rail was heard, commanding his dutiful nephew to fetch his hot water bottle from his water-logged stateroom.

Carnegie Institute.

The Carnegie Institute, Washington, was founded by Mr. Andrew Carnegie January 28, 1902, when he gave the board of trustees the sum of $10,000,000 in registered bonds, yielding 5 per cent. annual interest. He stated, in general terms, that his purpose was to "found in the city of Washington an institution which, with the cooperation of institutions now or hereafter established, there or elsewhere, shall in the broadest and most liberal manner encourage investigation, research and discovery, show the application of knowledge to the improvement of mankind, and provide such buildings, laboratories, books and apparatus as may be needed." Mr. Carnegie added $2,000,000 to his gift in 1907.

Found Use for Sawdust.

In the consideration of a change from steam to electric drive in a St. Paul (Minn.) saw and box mill, the one stumbling block was the matter of the disposition of the sawdust accumulated about the machinery. Under the old system this was made use of under the boilers, and thus it saved the expense of fuel and of being carried away, but the problem was eventually solved by the erection of a storage house where the sawdust was stored in the shape of bales and disposed of during the winter, when it demanded a higher price than could be secured in the summer. In winter the material is in demand for bedding in stables. The change from steam to electricity proved to be a desirable one from every standpoint after the matter of the disposal of the refuse was solved in this manner.

Tea Came to Europe in 1666.

Tea is native to Japan, China and Upper Assam. In the latter country it is found in a wild state. The plant has been carried to many countries and grows with almost as much vigor as in its native lands.

Tea was first introduced in Europe by the Dutch, in 1666. The leaves of the coffee plant have long been used as a substitute for tea by the lower classes in Java and Sumatra. In appearance, taste and odor this substitute compares favorably with the Chinese production.

PROGRESSIVE TICKET.

For President,
THEODORE ROOSEVELT.
For Vice President,
GOV. HIRAM JOHNSON.

Gov. Wilson is asking the American farmer to vote down good prices for his products, in order to reduce the cost of living.

Speaking of bosses, what about Prof. Wilson, who proposes to displace the Democratic nomination for U. S. Senate in his own State, and for Governor in New York.

A poll made by the Cincinnati Inquirer of the Indiana Methodist Conference at Jeffersonville last Saturday as to their Presidential preference resulted as follows: Roosevelt, 77; Wilson, 22; Taft, 8; scattering, 12.

News dispatches tell us that Senator Bradley opened the Republican campaign in Lexington last Saturday night before a large crowd of Federal officeholders, who warmly applauded his coarse abuse of Roosevelt.

Senator Bradley is thoroughly competent to discuss "boffers," having booted from the Democrats when a young man, after having been honored with office by that party and in 1896 he booted the nomination of Dr. Hunter who was the Republican caucus nominee for U. S. Senator.

* Ohio county farmers who were so much opposed to Canadian reciprocity, passed by President Taft with the aid of a Democratic House, must remember that the only party platform which stands out against this injustice is the Progressive platform and the only candidate for President who pledges his opposition to it is Col. Roosevelt.

Over in Indiana the Democrats are calling on the Taft men to help them defeat Beveridge for Governor, and in Western States they are openly trying to line up the Taft men for Wilson to defeat Roosevelt. This kind of bait would even be endorsed by our Democratic friends in this part of the world, and with kind words and soft pats on the head. Verily politics makes strange bed fellows.

Local aids of the Taft cause by every means continue to peddle the lie that Progressives abuse the Republican party. No one ever heard a Progressive do so. They do condemn the leaders into whose hands the remnants of that once powerful and useful party has fallen. They condemn Crane, Penrose, Barnes, Roosevelt and others who committed the crime against free government at Chicago. Who defends them?

We are glad to note that the organized farmers of Ohio county, the members of the A. S. of E. are holding profitable and pleasant district meetings over the county. Last Saturday Hartford Magisterial District met at Hoffman and spent the day as guests of the local union at that place. These gatherings are calculated to do much good and go a great way in strengthening the bond of good fellowship toward mankind and co-operation in their profession.

EXTRACT FROM THE TAFT ORGAN.

The Hartford Herald says:
"As a matter of fact, the voters of Ohio county would hear little about the doings of the Taft fellows but for 'The Herald'."

"There are incidents multiplying every day which indicate that the Republican vote in Ohio county—between Roosevelt and Taft—will be pretty evenly divided. The Taft fellows seem to have a pretty good organization."

STRAW VOTE IS TAKEN.

Samuel M. Davis, President of the Federal Voting Machine Co., of Pawtucket R. I., has sent to the Progressive headquarters in New York, the result of a vote which he is making daily among his employees. The regular voting machine is used in making this vote.

"Colonel Roosevelt has led in the voting every day," writes Mr. Davis, "and is creating some consternation among the republicans and democrats."

The voting on Sept. 16th brought these results:
Roosevelt ..... 172
Taft ..... 107
Wilson ..... 127
Dubs ..... 46
Chaffin ..... 37

Something in These Names.

New York, Sept. 21.—A curious juxtaposition of names familiar in recent police history caused a ripple of interest in the children's court last night when the clerk called, "Charles Becker" and "Herman Rosenthal" to appear for arraignment.

Becker proved to be a ten-year-old boy charged with building a bonfire in the street.

Rosenthal was a boy also of ten years, accused of throwing stones. He was discharged. Becker paid a $1 fine.

Vanderbilt's Twelve Cents.

Mr. Vanderbilt was notably exalted in his personal business relations of himself as well as of others. At a meeting of a certain railroad's board of directors of which he was a member it was found that several were absent those present shared the total fee. That is, if but half the members were present each attending member would receive $20, and so proportionally. On the day of the meeting referred to the number of absentees made the division of the fee amount to certain odd dollars and 12-1/2 cents. At the close of the meeting, as the secretary handed each member his apportioned fee, he accepted the given number of dollars and passed up the 12-1/2 cents to avoid the bother of making change. When the secretary came to Mr. Vanderbilt, however, he found him busily counting some coin from a purse on the table. "I can change a dollar for you and will take the 12 cents," said Mr. Vanderbilt, then smiled as he added, "but I cannot manage the 1-2 cent."

And the man worth more than $100,000,000 had taken the trouble to change a dollar for the sake of 12 cents, which, together with the extra dollars, had come to him by the default of others. Had the proposed half-penny been in circulation he would probably have "managed" the 1-2 cent.

The next day Cornelius Vanderbilt gave $500,000 to establish a charity work in New York. And it was in a measure due to his constantly keeping close tab on the pennies in the handling of his large affairs that he was able to make such a splendid gift in the cause of humanity.—Richard M. Williams, in Harper's Weekly.

COOPER SCHOOLHOUSE.

Sept. 21.—School at Cooper, is progressing nicely under the management of Prof. F. G. Miller.

The young folks of this neighborhood organized a literary society at Cooper Schoolhouse recently which meets every Friday night and is progressing nicely. Officers are as follows: Frank G. Miller, President; J. W. Cox, Assistant President; Tassie E. Taylor, Secretary; Clarence Reid, Assistant Secretary.

Mr. E. W. Jackson, has gone to Nashville, Tenn., on business.

Miss Eva Taylor has been absent from school, the past few days on account of illness.

Mr. Clarence Baker and family of Taylor Mines have moved to Chennwell, to the Dr. Williams property.

Miss Gertie Stevens, is very ill at this writing.

Master Mallard Miller, who is ill of typhoid fever, is getting along nicely.

Mr. Byron Taylor went to McHenry Monday on business.

Mr. Glendon Stevens, who has been ill of malaria, is able to be up again.

Rev. Thomas Hunt, of Brooklyn, Ky., spent the day Tuesday at Mr. C. E. Taylor's.

Several from here attended the Butler county fair at Morgantown last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Johnson, of McHenry, are visiting Mr. Johnson's parents this week.

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Howard and little daughter Tryphena are visiting relatives at Selig for a few days.

Mr. A. E. Sandefur, is at Morgantown practicing his profession.

Mrs. G. W. Goodon, of Prentiss, visited her daughter Mrs. A. E. Sandefur a few days last week.

Mr. Benches Coleman and wife of near Beaver Dam, spent Saturday night and Sunday with Mrs. Coleman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Stevens.

Mrs. Emily Coleman who has been ill for some time, is thought to be improving.

Appreciates Our Efforts.

Editor The Republican, Hartford, Ky.
Dear Sir:—Enclosed find $1.00 for which please send your paper one year.
I have just taken charge of the county high school here. Everything is moving along nicely.
Best wishes for the success of The Republican and its efforts for the cause of Theodore Roosevelt.

CLAPP UNCOVERS WOODPILE NIGGER

Hilles Also Must Tell About Election Money.

Entire Subject to be Gone Into
From Angles of Both Candidates.

Washington, Sept. 21.—An investigation to determine whether campaign contributions had anything to do with the refusal of Congress to revise the wool tariff in the special session of 1909, has been started by Chairman Clapp of the Senate Committee investigating campaign expenditures.

It is understood he is preparing to submit to the full committee a list of witnesses, including the names of former Speaker Cannon, Representative Mr. Kinney, of Illinois, and Representative Weeks, of Massachusetts, and Representatives of various branches of the woolen industry, with the recommendation that they be questioned, as to any knowledge they may have of campaign funds furnished in the congressional fight of 1908.

Senator Clapp has received a letter from George W. Perkins, asking that Charles D. Hilles, chairman of the Republican National Committee, be called before the Senate Committee investigating campaign expenditures, to testify fully as to his change of Col. Roosevelt had spent millions of dollars of Harvester Trust money.

Senator Clapp today stated that Mr. Hilles undoubtedly would be called before the committee, but would be questioned not alone on that reported payment, but on the general subject of campaign contributions.

A plan for the opening of next week's hearings was outlined today by Senator Clapp for presentation to the full committee when it meets.

The first witness probably will be Cornelius N. Blyss, Jr., and the second C. C. Tegenhoff private secretary to the late Edward H. Harriman.

These two men will be called upon to produce any papers belonging to the estates respectively of Cornelius N. Blyss and Mr. Harriman that might throw light on the charges made by John D. Archbold, that the Standard Oil Company had been asked to contribute to the Roosevelt fund of 1904.

The implicit confidence that many people have in Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is founded on their experience in the use of that remedy and their knowledge of the many remarkable cures of colic, diarrhea and dysentery that it has effected. For sale by all dealers.

The Cause.

The other day a merchant of a nearby town happened to see a farmer receive a box at the depot and noticed that it was from a mail order house. He also noticed that the goods were right in his line and same he had carried for years. He immediately approached the farmer and said: "I could have sold you the article you have there for less money than the Chicago house and saved you the freight besides." "Then why don't you do so?" asked the farmer. "I have taken the local paper for a year and haven't seen a line about you selling these or any other kind of goods. This mail order house sent advertising to me asking for my trade and they got it. If you have any bargains, why don't you put them in the paper so we can see what they are?"

Nineteen Miles a Second

without a jar, shock or disturbance, is the awfulest feat of our earth through space. We wonder at such ease of nature's movement and so do those who take Dr. King's New Life Pills. No gripping, no distress, just thorough work that brings good health and fine feelings. 25c at all druggists.

The Old Way.

One of our exchanges truthfully says that when pa was young, people who had bad colic, soaked their feet in hot water and took a few draughts of calomel and got well. Now they have a gripper, take quinine and feel sick all summer. Then they had sore throats, wrapped a piece of bacon in an old wool stocking, tied it around the neck at night and went to work the next day. Now they have tonsillitis, a surgical operation, and two weeks in hospital. Then they had stomach trouble and took castor oil and recovered. Now they have appendicitis, a week in the hospital and six feet due east and west and six feet perpendicular. In those days they were underdressed. Now they wear lingerie. Then they went to a restaurant; now they go to a safe. Then they broke a leg; now they fracture a thumb. People went crazy; now they have brain storms—or are born crazy, we don't know which. People clans then paid good, hard cash for support; now they send government garden seed instead. Yes, times have changed and we all change with the times—that's progress.

Running up and down stairs, sweeping and bending over making beds will not make a woman healthy or beautiful. She must get out of doors, walk a mile or two every day and take Chamberlain's Tablets to improve her digestion and regulate her bowels. For sale by all dealers.

Rev. English Complimented.

The Owensboro Inquirer has the following to say concerning Rev. E. B. English, who recently took charge of the Hartford Baptist church:

Rev. E. B. English, who recently resigned the pastorate of the Walnut street Baptist church of Owensboro, has accepted a call from the Baptist church at Hartford and with his family has gone there to reside and will take charge at once.

During the two or three years Rev. English was at Walnut street he was instrumental in largely increasing the membership and having built a fine Sunday school room and the entire church rebuilt and enlarged. He is a good preacher, fine pastor, and energetic worker, who will build up any church with which he may be connected.

If you know of the real value of Chamberlain's Liniment for lame back, soreness of the muscles, sprains and rheumatic pains, you would never wish to be without it. For sale by all dealers.

Suggestions for Correspondents.

We print a list of subjects below which will be of much assistance to correspondents in writing for the Republican. Always send us accounts of deaths, births, marriages, real estate deals, live stock sales, confagurations, accidents, condition of crops, unusual weather conditions, visiting abroad, social meetings, lodge meetings, church news, school news, condition of mills, family reunions, curiosities, robberies, murders, something good about people, anything of general interest.

Write on one side of the paper only and write plainly. Don't worry about polishing sentences with faultless rhetoric. What we want is news, plainly told.

Singing Convention at Bada.

The Progressive Singing Convention will be held September 29 at Bada. Everybody invited, singers especially, and don't forget to provide your own dinner, as this is a timely custom. Every feature will be added to make the convention a success and progressive. Yours for better music, F. P. SALMON.

Timely Seed Corn Hints.

At this particular season it is well to have the attention not only of the members of agricultural clubs but also of the general farmers, called to the importance of getting a good supply of seed corn for next year. The fact of next year's crop will be largely determined by the action taken by the farmer within the next few days. Seed corn testing is highly important, and should not be neglected, but it is well to remember that unless seed corn is properly cared for, the best test seedling will only reveal the fact that the seed corn should be selected from the best of the crop.

There are a good many things to take care of. These points concern not only the ear itself but the stalk upon which it was grown; hence it is desirable that the seed corn should be selected from the best before the corn is cut if possible.

Seed corn should be selected in the fall just as it is coming to maturity. Select well developed ears growing upon well developed and vigorous stalks, and of the same maturity. Mark them and allow them to mature. Do not select large ears from stalks that have grown in hills by themselves that have been extremely favored in the way of rich soils or have been favored in regard to moisture present, but prefer those that have produced most heavily when growing under average conditions. Other things being equal, select ears from short, thick stalks rather than from tall slender ones, as the latter are more likely to be blown down. Never select an ear that is extremely long or shank, but rather select one of a medium shank with the tip pointing downward at an angle of about 45 degrees. Prefer ears that do not have a gross, coarse, heavy husk.

Those boys' and girls' clubs that have come under the direction of the State University Extension Division of the College of Agriculture have noticed that they were designated "agricultural clubs" and not "corn clubs." The reason for this is that boys' and girls' clubs in their respective counties should be fixed organizations through which many good things may be taught to them and other people, the club itself

In this connection a hand-book of instruction has been prepared for these clubs, including certain definite exercises in corn growing, animal husbandry, dairymaking, horticulture, poultry, potato growing and domestic science.

The work of instructing and looking after these clubs has recently been provided for on a better basis than ever before, and as good as our work has been in the past it is hoped that it may be better in the near future. Under the new arrangement the extension work of the University has been divided into three sections, all operating under one head. The boys' and girls' club work has been assigned as a division to Dr. Fred Muehlner of Bowling Green, Kentucky, stationed at the Western Normal School.

Co-operation is now being lent by the Federal Government and by various individuals and corporations interested. Letters regarding club work should be sent to Dr. Muehlner directly.

No club should neglect this year to have a good show of various farm products, as the crops have been fine. As assistance in such undertakings will be freely given on application to the Extension Division.

T. R. BRYANT,

Supt. Extension Division, College of Agriculture, Lexington, Kentucky.

member of the State Central Progressive Committee from the Second District, was in Hartford Wednesday on his way home from Christian county where he had been looking after the organization of that county for the Progressives. Mr.
Barrett is well pleased with the prospects for the success of the Progressives at the November election.

Ohio Tribe No. 188 Improved Order of Red Men of this city held an enjoyable meeting at Fraternity Hall Wednesday night, the occasion being the annual Home Coming, which is observed by all lodges in the Reservation of Kentucky.
A splendid supper had been prepared,
after which the old and new members adjourned to the lodge room and enjoyed talks by members of the order.

Mr. J. B. Tappan several days ago bought the store in which he has conducted his jewelry establishment for several years, from the estate of the Rev. G. J. Brann. Mr. Tappan has been in business in Hartford for some time and by up-to-date methods and coun-terous treatment to the public and a liberal use of his home newspapers has built up an enviable trade. We wish him continued prosperity.

Messrs. A. E. Pate and Stephen Grigby are engaged in installing the switch board of the Farmers' Mutual Telephone Hartford Division, in Dr. E. W. Ford's building on Center square. This telephone work has been held up for some time for various reasons, but just as soon as the switch board is properly installed telephone connections can be made, as the wires in Hartford have already been strung. The engineer will be employed in a few days.

The district meeting of this district for the Improved Order of Red Men of Kentucky has been arranged to meet in Hartford on Tuesday October 8.
There will be something like fifty Tribes represented by delegates and about 200 people are expected to attend the meeting. In the afternoon a public meeting will be held and everybody invited to attend this meeting. In the evening a second session will be held at Fraternity Hall and degrees will be conferred. An elegant banquet to the delegates will also be served at 6:30 Tuesday evening.

SAYS WILSON IS TRAITOR TO LABOR

Roosevelt Exposes Stand of Prof.
Wilson and Wall Street.

Topeka, Kan., Sept. 21.—"Mr. Wilson is the Buchanan of the present industrial situation in the United States."
Col. Roosevelt thus summed up his opinion of the Democratic candidate's position and policy tonight. He charged that Gov. Wilson had "directly invec-ted the truth" and said that his knowledge of the Roosevelt administration was gained "from the seclusion of the class room at the time when he was still taking the position of the ultra-conservative" and was being carefully groomed for the presidency by George B.
Harvey and other representatives of Wall Street interests.

Col. Roosevelt's speech here tonight was devoted largely to a reply to Gov.
Wilson's recent addresses. He came here after a day's campaigning in Kansas. He spent the afternoon in Ogawa and stopped for a few minutes in Lawrence, the home of Gov. Spaulds. At each place he was met by large crowds.
"At Detroit yesterday" Col. Roosevelt said, "Mr. Wilson made a statement which purported to be an answer to what I said in Colorado. I say purported because it was in no shape or way an answer at all. Moreover, so far as his utterance can be said to contain any statement at all, it is simply a misstatement of facts."

EVANGELISM HAS GONE INTO COMMERCIALISM

Clergymen Criticise Methods Used

---Too Much Graft Financially.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—Evangelism in the United States has degenerated into commercialism and professionalism, according to Dr. J. M. Gray, head of the Moody Institute, who spoke before the national conference of evangelists here today.

The present day evangelists become so entangled with boosters and hymnbook propositions that they are simply in a money making business," said Dr. Gray.

Methods of finance conducted by some evangelists were declared to be nothing but graft by Rev. P. E. Taylor, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Indianapolis.

"When I started out as an evangelist," said Rev. Taylor, "another evangelist invited me to come to his house to learn the tricks of the trade."

"I have got 'em skinned a mile in taking an offering," was one of this evangelist's boasts, imagine Wesley, Whitefield or Moody saying that.

The need of rural evangelistic effort was emphasized by Prof. Melvin E. Trotter, of Grand Rapids.

"Eighty per cent of the professional men, lawyers, doctors, college professors and school teachers come from the country," said Mr. Trotter. "We have got to reach these men before they reach the city."

Rev. Trotter explained that his own method of rural evangelism is to gear the country in automobiles.

"They give us plenty of filled children," he said, "and we get the people saved."

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

Mr. A. T. French made a business trip to Owensboro Friday.

Mr. S. R. French has an apple tree putting on a strange freak of nature for the time of year. The tree is now in full bloom.

Mr. Sam Lake was stricken down with paralysis Wednesday night and is in a precarious condition.

Mr. Joe McKinley is dangerously ill and his recovery is very doubtful.

Miss Leota French of Terra Haute, Ind., is visiting her cousins, Misses Delia and Ophelia French.

Mr. Capps and family left Monday for Tennessee to make good their future home.

The Time to Advertise.

The time to advertise is all the time, but the advertising should vary with the seasons.

Advertising performs a double function. It helps the merchant to move larger quantities, and so enables him to buy at better advantage than he could do without advertising.

It enables the customer to study the stock in advance. She compares her wants and her purse with the goods advertised, and she goes to the store knowing what she wants, consequently, shopping is facilitated, and the day's business is more satisfactory to all concerned.

To Mothers --- And Others

You can use Bucklen's Arnica Salve to cure children of eczema, rashes, colic, chafings, sores and crusted humors, as well as their accidental injuries, cuts, burns, bruises, etc., with perfect safety. Nothing else heals so quickly. For boils, ulcers, old, running sores or piles it has no equal. 25 cts at all druggists.
